A ROMANTIC TALE. A Little Story of the "Click, Click, Click," A Pair Type-writer's Humor,

There is in Washington a young typewriter whose good looks and charming manners justify the sentiments which her employer feels toward her. He is in the habit of dictating his correspondence while her expert fingers transfix the while her expert fingers transfix the while her expert fingers transfix the words as he utters them. The other morning he concluded to end the uncertainty which had come into existence by asking her to marry him. She was engaged on some copying when he approached her and poured out his sentiments, and, notwithstanding the warmth of his pleadings, kept right shead with the clickety, click click of the instrument. In fact, she paid so little attention to him that he became discouraged and left the room, intending to speak to her when her mind was free from her duties. He went to his lunch, and on his return sat down to sign a lot of letters that lay on his desk. There was a large pile, and he went through it mechanically, until he struck a sheet near the bottom. Jumping to his feet, he simply exclaimed; "Well, I'll blowed!" The cold, glaring typewritten letter read: "Miss Susis:—Maybe you'll think I'm an old fackass, but I ain't. I mean business. I know I don't happen to be very pretty, but I'd be good to a family. I was thinking that maybe you'd learn to like me if you'd go to church with meand give the minister a few minutes' employment. And this ain't to save any salary either. It's because I want you for your.—. Say, you sin't listening, are you? Well, I'll come in later when you ain't so busy."

A CHINESE MASON.

A CHINESE MASON.

Low Yuk Ling Received Into the Fellow-ship of the Craft.

The regular semi-weekly assembling of Eureka Lodge, No. 243, F. and A. M., took place at their spacious lodge room n the temple, says the New York Star. The occasion was the first instance of the conferring of the degrees of Master Mason on a native of the flowery king-

Mason on a native of the flowery kingdom. Low Yuk Ling, a Chinaman, who is said to be of noble birth and a relative of the present Chineae Emperor, and whose ancestry probably dates back to the days of Confucius, was received into full fellowship as a member of the Exreka Lodge in the presence of 500 members of the fraternity.

The candidate, in order to be preficient in preceding degrees, was under the tuition of Past Muster of Eureka Lodge and ex-Inspector of Police, Worshipful Brother G. W. Dilks, and the candidate passed showed that Brother Dilks is a thorough disciplinarian and the subject a very apt pupil.

The backs are the flowery and relative the candidate passed showed that they are creating a furor. White ulsters are used for yachting excursions. They may be tight fitting ian and the subject a very apt pupil. That Brother Ling was thoroughly Americanized was clearly established, for in taking the obligation his responses were given in a distinct, clear voice, and could be heard in every part of the large hall.

The hall was decorated with flags of The hall was decorated with flags of both nations. Over the master's chair, in letters of gold, was the word "Welcome." The handsomely papered walls, richly frescoed ceiling, and elegant upholstery under the incandescent light presented a striking picture. At the conclusion of the ceremonics Brother Ling Invited "all the boys" to partake of a sunontone hanoust, where every delia sumptuous banquet, where every deli-cacy the market affords was tastefully spread. Covers for 300 were laid at a fanous restaurant up-town,

AGRICULTURAL NOTES,

Matters of Interest to the Intelligencer's Farmer Renders. Every ounce of food procured for the use of stock is converted into beef, muttop, pork, milk or manure. In the shape of meat and milk the farmer disposes of it at an increased price, but the expenses are to be deducted. All that expenses are to be deducted. All that remains on the farm unsold, after the cost of the whole has been secured in the sales, is just as much a matter of profit as that which has been marketed, and this surplus is the manure, which can be converted into food the next year. The farm is therefore increased in fertility and at the same time increased in value, the profits heigh expended on the tility and at the same time increased in value, the profits being expended on the farm as manure. If the value of the manure annually made in this country could be estimated on some hasis the figures would be startling, and they would show that the farmers create more wealth than the estimates given in the crops only.

DISPOSING OF CROPS. It is an old proverb, "More stock more manure; more manure more crops; more crops more stock." There is, of course, a limit to be reached somewhere in the increase, but the farmer who engages in stock raising is sure to reach a point where his stock cannot dispose of the productions of the soil by producing meat and milk, and his expenses are then reduced by reason of his abundance and independence of the necessity of buying elsewhere, which increases the profits from sales and gives the farm a greater value, due to its capacity of production, and in that respect he may be storing up the profit of each year to reap it at a future time in the shape of the surplus crops soid over and above the amount required for stock. The farmer whose farm is abundantly stocked with all the animals he can accommodate, where his stock cannot dispose of the all the animals he can accommodate, and who sells his hay, is not always as unwise as is sometimes charged, as the hay is simply a portion of the surplus which has been added to the farm in the Farm and Garden in August.

Corn in the glazing stage makes the best fodder. If cut when the ear is hard the stalk is then (to a certain extent) woody, and if out very young, before the ears are formed, the stalk abounds in water and is lacking in nutrition. When the ear is about filled and beginning to glaze the cutting of the corn at that stage arrests the nutritive elements in the stalk, and the fodder is then equal to hay, being fed to stock with the ears on the stalk or cut up in a cutter.

An excellent mode of ridding animals the stalk or cut up in a cutter.

An excellent mode of ridding animals of lice is to add one quart of kerosene to ten quarts of scapeuds, and with a hand sprayer or nozale of any kind spray the emulsion on the animals. It will kill the lice and the eggs. A thorough sprinkling with potato water (water in which potatoes have been bolled) will cause lice to leave, but will not kill them.

ng and half an inch in diameter. Un as the worm is caught it will cut up al a foliage, and as it is nearly of the lor of the vines it is easily detected.

It will not pay to attempt to farm with fewer horses than are really required. An overworked horse may be reduced in value more than the sum that may be derived from the crop he produces. Every farmer should have a spare horse or two in order to rest the hard workers, especially in summer.

The folder from the early sweet corn.

The fodder from the early sweet corn is one of the best foods that can be used for milch cows. The fodder is improved if cut and stored in the barn, so as to be kept clean and bright. If cut with a cutter cattle will eat every portion of the stalk.

FASHION NOTES.

White hats are in favor. Red reigns for country costumes. A fan forms a large rose when closed Flower designs ornament the newes silver belt buckles. Soft felt hats are chosen for wear with nountain costumes. White waistcoats are particularly popular with all sorts of gowns. The name given to the dull red now so popular is "rouge Eiffel." Do not forget, ladies, that these are wonderful days for bargains.

Plaid taffeta is used for gay seaside toilets by French ladies this season. Ideal tennis and boating dresses are shapely meal sacks tied in the middle, White serge has been used very ex-tensively this season for yachting cos-

French flanuels, with borders, are used extensively for seaside and mountain dresses.

Nile green and peach are colors found n combination on some of the latest Paris-made dresses, Thick percales are almost the only cotton fabrics that do not become limp with exposure to sea air.

New neckties for evening wear adopted by eccentric young men are white with a thin edging of scarlet. It has become the custom to divide floral decoration into two distinct classes, the wild and the cultivated.

Shirt sleeves with wide wrist-bands which are turned back from the hand are those which best suit blouse waists.

It has required several seasons to convince French ladies of the beauty of straight skirts, but now they have really been adopted they are creating a furor.

White ulaters are used for yachting excursions. They may be tight fitting or loose to suit the taste of the weater, but the professors is given to these with out the preference is given to those with

Marriage

is but the stepping-stone to those divine institutions, the family and the home, which constitute the very foundation on which our nation rests; and upon the health and strength of the wife, and mother, depends the sunshine and enjoyment of the home, and the prosperity of the family. Thousands of wives, and thousands of single ladies, drag out a weary existence in consequence of perweary existence in consequence of per-plexing "female disorders," in total ignorance of the fact, that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, prolapsus, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation, ulceration and kindred aliments. Guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded. All druggists.

unwise as is sometimes charged, as the hay is simply a portion of the surphus which has been added to the farm in the mesure, and which now becomes profit.

Strawberry beds that have not been kept clean since the berries were off will be quickly overrun with grass and weeds. If the weeds are in possession of the bed they may be mowed down. Grass will be more difficult to remove, and the best that can be done is to clean between the rows thoroughly in order to allow room for the new runners to root and grow.

To secure flowers successively the bushes and vines must be kept in flowering condition by not allowing the flowers to remain and go to seed. When a plant produces seed it has accomplished its object, and every seed podiormed lessens the number of flowers. Alt flowers should be cut off before they begin to fade or change color.

Sheep are not profitable if kept as a "side business." A flock that is given the same attention that is bestowed on other stock, and kept as a business venture, will pay a larger profit for capital invested than any other class of stock, but sheep pay best when bred for must ton rather than for wool.

We don't like to talk about the weather, but it's really getting to be a Sirius matter.

Hale and Hearty in Old Age.

What is more beautiful than an ancient tree clothed with an ample robe of verdure. Apt is the comparison between such a growth and an old man or woman infused with health or vigor. The gree que non, the indispensable condition of vigorous youth, robust manhood and a virile old age, is sound digestion. Without this life is shore of the hearty sest that should attend it. No more beneficent and screen be contributor to emulsion on the animals. It will kill the lies and the eggs. A thorough sprinkling with potato water (water in which potatoes have been boiled) will cause lies to leave, but will not kill them.
